Good News!

Our nation was founded on the principle of religious freedom. For the most part, we can worship as we like, believe as we like, and enjoy the security that comes from knowing we will not be punished, abused, or discriminated against for our faith. That has not been the case for all Christians, both throughout history and recently in several countries. Through the media we learn of ongoing killings and oppression inflicted on those who publicly claim to be Christian.

Jesus sent his disciples to preach the good news “like lambs among wolves.” Anyone who knows this metaphor knows how terrible it is—they will stand out, become the first targets and easy prey. But Jesus doesn't tell them to fight back or disguise themselves. Rather, he tells them to give witness at the kitchen table and eat what's put in front of them. In effect, Jesus tells them to get at the heart of people's lives and to wish them peace. Even if their peace is not returned, the disciples are not to let that weigh them down. “Shake the dust from your feet” and move on, Jesus says in Matthew 10:14.

Preaching the gospel is the mission of a disciple, no matter where or when he or she lives. Today, in honor of those who have given their lives in service of the gospel, share with one or two people the good news of what God has done in your life. Listen to them. Invite them to come to church. Offer to pray with them. Just for today, be the sheep that everyone sees. You'll never know who might join the flock.

Good News!

The scholar of the law had the right answer, but the wrong question. Love God with all your heart is the great Jewish law, and love your neighbor as yourself was part of the Holiness Code of Leviticus. But he asked, "Who is my neighbor," as though neighborliness was determined by a specific set of rules or restrictions: My neighbor is the person who lives next door, attends my child's school, or works in my field.

We, too, may think we'll help a neighbor, but a stranger—an outsider, a foreigner, someone who simply isn't "like me"—may be a different matter. For many, there are a few exceptions: When natural disasters strike, for instance, people reach out to help. They clear debris, send money, food, and supplies, and try to comfort the victims. In such circumstances, they are all neighbors.

Jesus turns the scholar's question around: "[Who] was neighbor to the robbers' victim?" This change put the responsibility of being a neighbor on us. The answer becomes, I am a neighbor to everyone I meet, whether stranger or friend, black or white, Christian or atheist, gay or straight, native or immigrant. Being a neighbor and loving neighbors is part and parcel of loving God and following Christ. Once I realize that, I must acknowledge two connected truths: God sees me as I am, loves me, and calls me neighbor; and the only conceivable response to that love is to see God in every person and to love them in return.

Assisted Suicide and Euthanasia – Think About It

All persons deserve protection against discrimination, but especially those who are vulnerable and may not have a voice, including those living with disabilities, mental illness, or dementia. Allowing assisted suicide and euthanasia entrenches the idea that some lives are not worth living.

FROM PASTOR'S DESK:

While we generally associate the summer months of July and August as being more leisurely and care-free times, on many fronts we find that these are becoming more troublesome and difficult times than we are accustomed. I have already written and referred to the painful situation in our country with the approval of euthanasia and the continuing pressures this will undoubtedly place on the consciences of many people along the way, but there are many others that impact the life of our parishes directly and indirectly. Ever since the bottom fell out of the price of our two chief commodities in Saskatchewan, oil and potash, many of our parishes in those regions where those industries were located have been hard economically, as many people have either lost their jobs outright or have had their hours substantially reduced. Certainly, even with my limited driving range there is noticeably much less activity and machinery moving around than I had grown accustomed to seeing over the years that I have been living in Weyburn, and this has to be felt economically for many families and businesses respectively. There will be a ripple-effect felt in parish coffers, across the province, as the general revenue decreases, and some of this may be starting to affect our own parish as well in time. Everyone should continue doing their part to support and contribute financially to their parish, as overall expenses don't go away. According to the financial accounting, our revenues are falling short of our ongoing expenses (just on the Church side, apart from McKenna) by $5,000 per month (or $1,250 per week) and this is just a break-even analysis. I realize that our summer months witness lower attendance as people are spending time at the cottage and on holidays, which generally reduces our envelope revenue which means that we spend some catching up in the fall months when the parish revenues start to increase again. Globally and internationally speaking, we have seen the economic and political turmoil happening in the United Kingdom with the Brexit vote in favour of Britain leaving the European Union, and only time will tell how permanent and lasting some of those economic effects will be felt not only for the British people. The current political campaigning between Hillary Clinton and Donald Trump in the United States is causing many people to shudder as to what might be the final outcome of the Presidential election this coming November. Somehow I fear that we are under the threat of more economic and political instability before all this settles out, and this always seems to have an effect on our own local situation even though we seem to be far removed. All the more reason we have to pray for the return of economic and political stability, because externally this seems very worrisome and beyond our control. Lord God, have mercy on us and help us. Amen
